Skiway wants to make snow from A'scoggin

But Bethel commission worries about possible dioxin contamination

By WENDY HANSCOM

Sunday River Ski Resort has proposed construction of a four-mile long pipeline from the Androscoggin River to the resort's snowmaking system.

The Bethel Conservation Commission, however, has raised several concerns regarding the environmental impact of such a plan.

The skiway's current water supply—from the Sunday River—is adequate at this time, skiway engineer Joe Aloisio said. The proposed pipeline would supply water for the resort's planned expansion west into the Merrill Brook Basin, he said.

The pipeline would travel underground along the Sunday River and Skiway Access roads. Aloisio said right-of-ways from the state and the town of Newry would be required in School board reconsiders policy allowing directors to work as substitutes

By WENDY HANSCOM

Some SAD #44 school directors may soon have to choose between remaining on the school board or staying on the district payroll as substitute teachers.

Currently, directors are allowed to work as substitutes, including as teachers, busdrivers, custodians, secretaries and food service workers, according to Superintendent Dwayne Craig. But no director can work a regular full-time or part-time job in the district, he said.

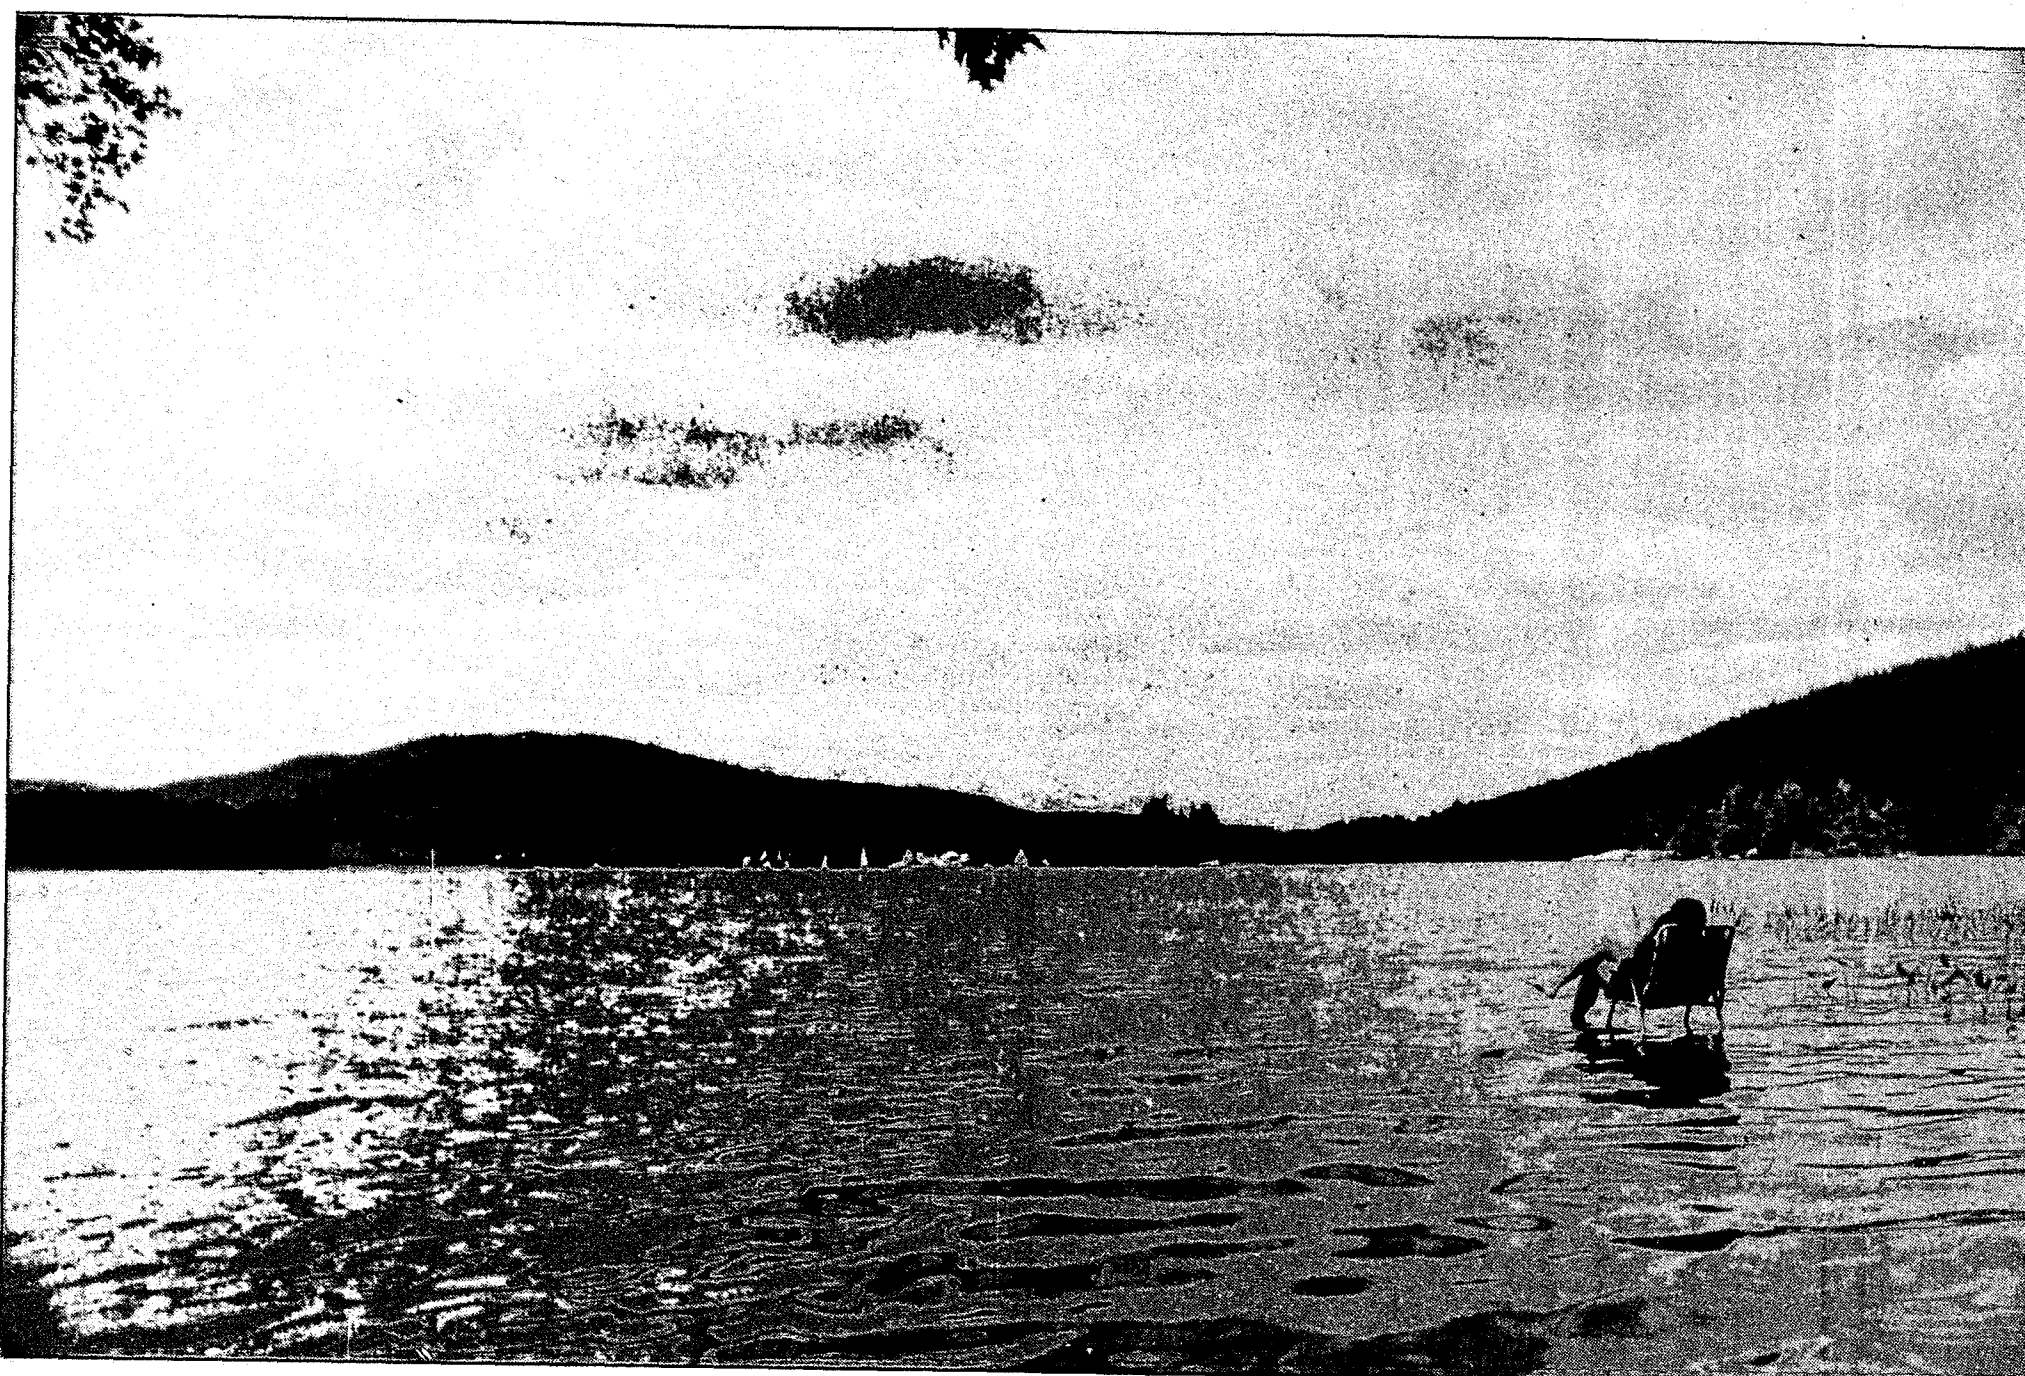

The board's policy committee has drafted a recommendation that calls for no district employment by board members—except as Adult Education instructors. The first discussion of the proposal may appear on the board's Aug. 26 agenda, Craig said.

Board members, who commented at last week's regular board meeting and the policy committee meeting which followed, seemed mainly concerned with losing the right to substitute teach.

There are currently three board members—Marcel Polak, Linda Saunders and Ivan Roberts—who have served as substitute teachers for the district, according to Craig.

The policy committee reconsidered the directors' employment guidelines, Craig said, after the state mandated this year that board members could no longer coach in their districts. The policy committee reviews all the Opponents blast military's plan for treetop-level fighter flights

"Low level training missions . . . will forever alter the character and quality of life which is in many respects the lifeblood of the region."

U.S. Sen. William Cohen

By MICHAEL DANIELS

One hundred and fifty Western Maine residents, backed by strong statements from the state's congressional delegation, took aim last week at a National Guard proposal to allow military training flights to operate at treetop levels throughout the 200-square mile Condor Military Operating Area.

At a "scoping session" held in Farmington, the residents subjected National Guard officials to "three hours of interrupted shelling"—in the words of Paul Lowe, executive director of the Western Maine Alliance.

The Guard proposal would lower the operations floor in Condor to 300 feet, from its present 7,000 feet, and would create a second operations area, "The great State of Maine Military Operations Area," in the Northwest corner of the state.

Military documents outlining the proposal call for at least 4,620 daylight training flights per year in the two areas—or approximately one every half hour.

The primary users would be National Guard fighters from Massachusetts, Connecticut and Vermont, as well as Canadian fighters from Quebec.

The National Guard units are in the process of converting to F-16 fighters, and Guard officials argue that the lower-level clearances are necessary if the pilots are to be able to conduct realistic training missions.

Last week's scoping session was called at the urging of the Western Maine Alliance, which had objected to the Guard's plan to hold only one such session in Maine—in Presque Isle.

The Alliance has yet to take a position for or against the flights, but it has raised a number of questions about their impact on the area and about the

G'wood/DEP meeting reset for tomorrow

Greenwood selectmen are scheduled to meet Thursday, Aug. 1 with Dean Marriot, commissioner of the state Department of Environmental Protection, to discuss the proposed licensing of Peter Gordon's tire storage area on the Rabbit Road.

An meeting scheduled for earlier this month had been canceled due to the state's budget crisis.

Marriot's meeting with the Greenwood selectmen is at 4 p.m. He is also scheduled to meet earlier in the day with Peter and Susan Gordon.

The Greenwood selectmen are protesting the proposed license on a number of environmental and economic grounds. However, according to a published statement by Susan Gordon, the couple has been told by a DEP representative that the license approval was "in our hands."

Work now underway on Bethel Park Apartments

Clearing work has begun for the Bethel Park Apartments Project.

The 24-unit low-income housing development, located off Mason Street, is being developed by Gleichman and Company of Portland.

Aaron Shapiro, a development coordinator for Gleichman and Company, said that construction work is expected to begin in a few weeks. Shapiro said the current schedule calls for the buildings to be framed and closed in by winter and completed by sometime in the spring.

The contractor for the project is Speedway Construction of Oxford. Shapiro said he did not know how many, if any, local workers would be employed on the project.

Bethel Park Apartments were the subject of a series of contentious planning board hearings last year, as abutters and neighbors questioned the project's impact on wetlands, traffic, schools and the quality of life in the nearby Bethel Historic District.

The current project is a scaled back version of the original 48-unit, two-phase proposal.

Shapiro said the company has no current plans to pursue building a second phase of the project.

Newry OKs shoreland, development ordinances

By MARK SHANAHAN

Gathering at the town office last Tuesday, 50 Newry residents approved, after little or no debate, revised shoreland zoning and interim development review ordinances.

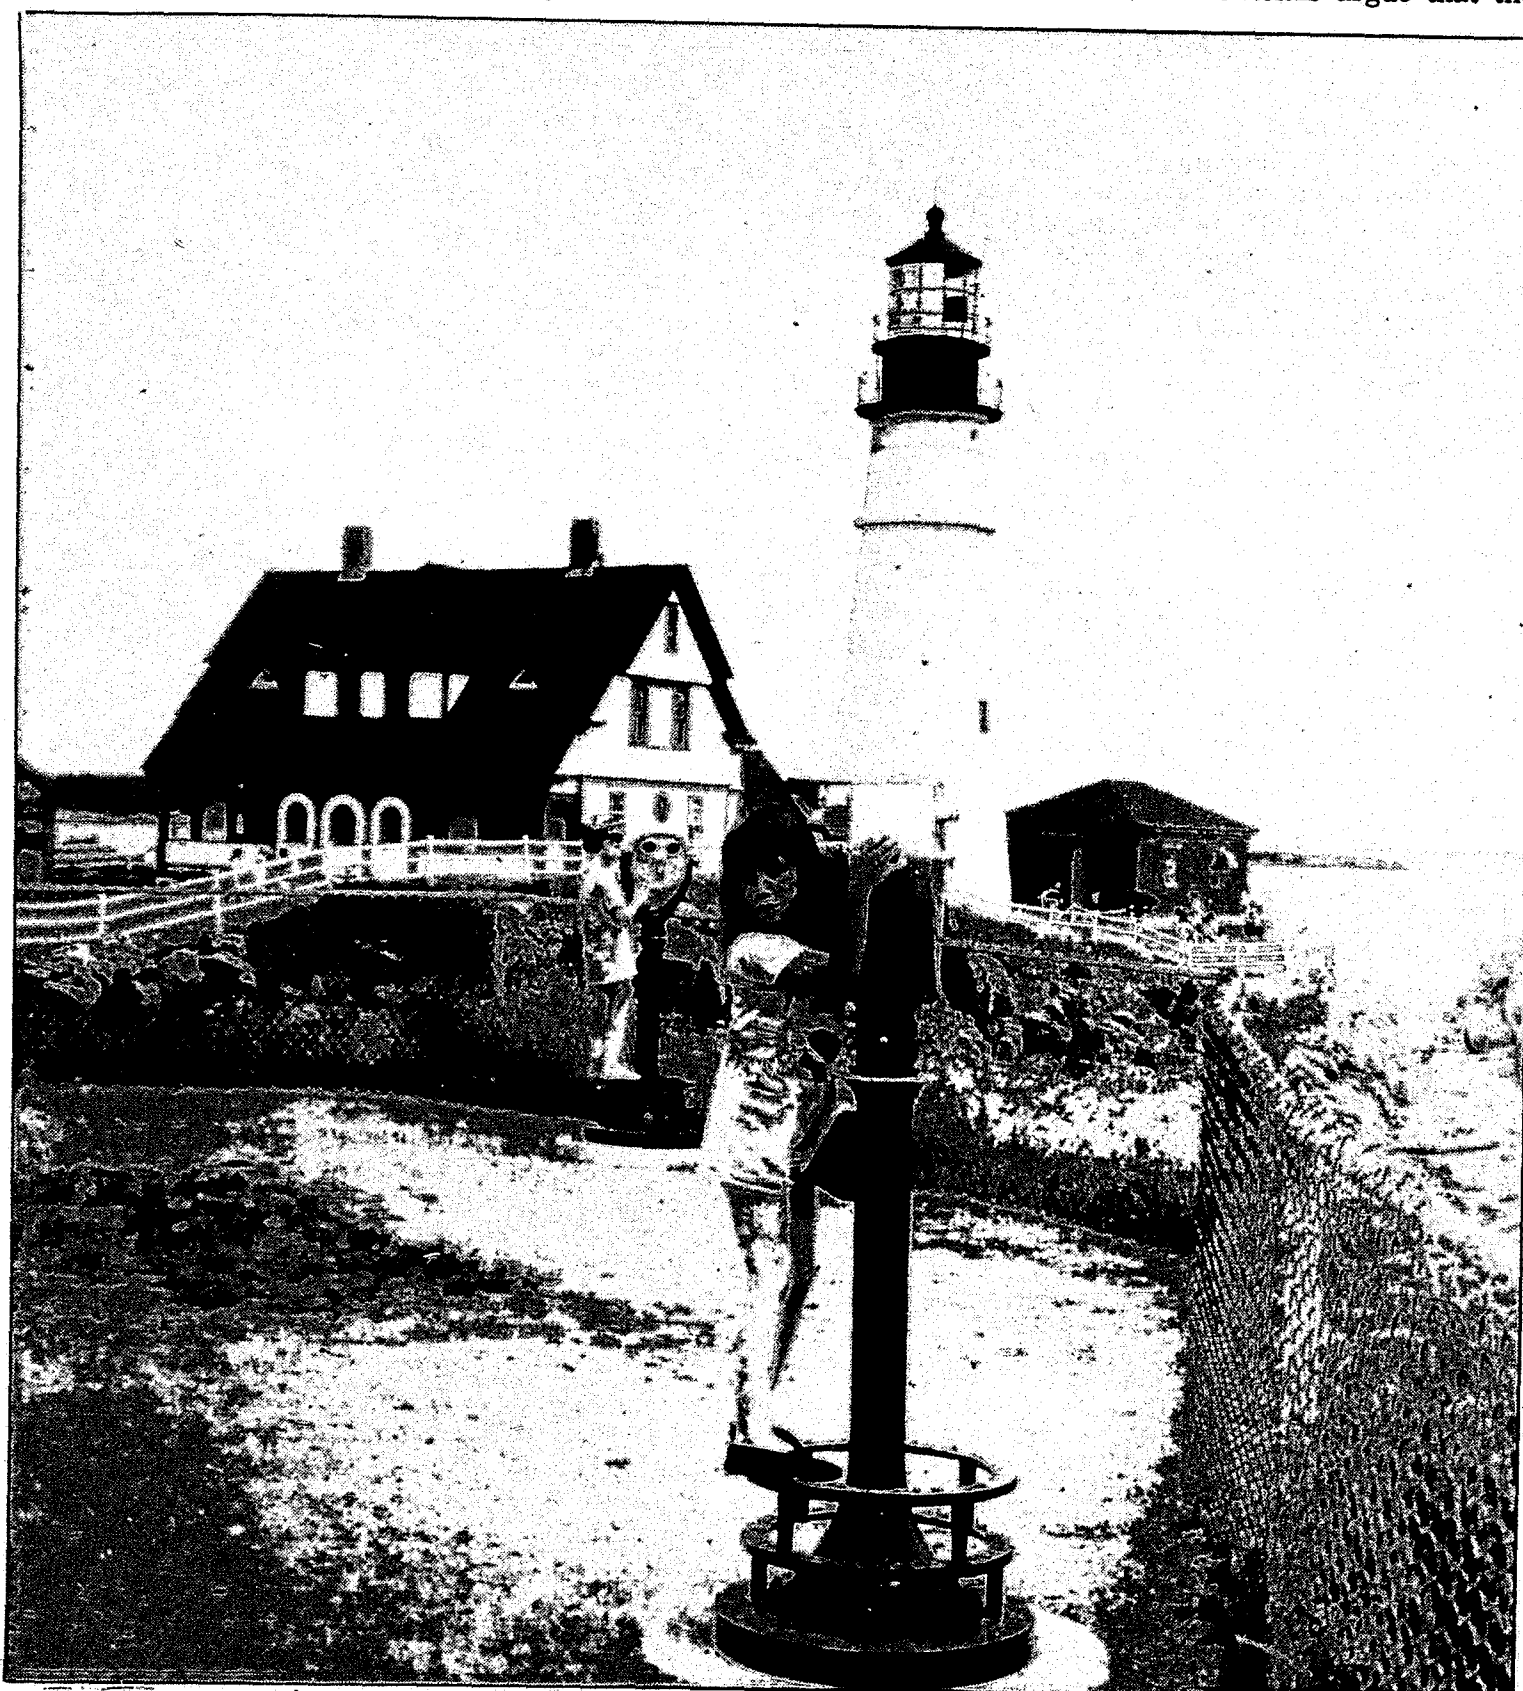

According to the Newry planning board chairperson, Nancy Noppa, the greatest change in the new shoreland zoning is the establishment of a so-called "limited commercial" zone district.

Under the terms of the approved ordinance, she said, "This district includes areas of two or more contiguous acres in size devoted to a mix of residential and low intensity business and commercial uses." Industrial uses of the land within this area are prohibited.

The ordinance specifies the location of the new light commercial zone as, along the Bear River, from the intersection of routes 2 and 28 to the northern boundary of Lot 27 (available on tax map R9) and, along the Sunday River, from the Bethel/Newry town line to the point at which the river is crossed by the Sunday River Road.

According to selectman Steve Wight, the term "limited commercial" is courtesy of the state. "It's a new concept and new vocabulary, too," Wight said.

Opinions

Nice job, Greenwood!

Congratulations to everyone who played a part in making Greenwood's 175th birthday celebration such a grand success.

The crowds were large and happy, the parade full of clever and well-executed floats, and the entertainment varied and fun.

Much of the credit for the success of the big event has to go to the long hours of planning put in by townsfolk, especially by the 175th Anniversary Committee, which began its work almost a year ago.

But many others also pitched in—the town recreation committee, fire department, historical society, selectmen, the American Legion, North Pond Sailing Association, Greenstock Snowmobile Club, Tri-Town Ambulance Service, Locke Mills Union Church and Ladies Circle, the old timers who strutted their sometimes-creaky stuff on the softball diamond, and the many other individuals and businesses in Greenwood and neighboring towns that worked to make the weekend a real community event.

And the celebration was more than just entertaining—it was also an occasion for people who hadn't seen each other for a long time to reconnect and share stories, and for people who may never have met to say "hello" and begin to forge the ties that make up a real community.

The happy effects of the weekend will no doubt be felt for many, many years.

Letters to the editor

CHIEF BELLMAN SAYS THANKS

To the Editor:

It is such a warm feeling to know that so many people care and are concerned when a tragedy or near tragedy occurs in a "small" town such as Bethel.

So many people have reached out to touch the hearts of my family; to lend a hand or a shoulder to cry on; to brighten the rooms with flowers and so many, many cards; to stop by and pay a visit; or just to include my family in their prayers.

There are just so many things I am thankful for; but most of all I am thankful for this new lease on life I have acquired.

And for that I must thank PACE and the Bethel Rescue Squad for their fast response and professionalism. I thank them for ignoring my denial, and assessing the situation completely. I thank them for their quick decision making, for without that it is doubtful that I would be writing this letter today.

There are so many people that I would like to thank, that to mention all of you would take the entire "Bethel Citizen."

So to make a long story short, from our hearts to yours, "Thank You, Bethel." You're a town to be proud of.

HOLD THE HELIUM

To the Editor:

This July I enjoyed my first Mollycoddle Day in Bethel. However, I would like to draw the attention of the committee to an ecology desecration of which I thought most people were aware. Helium balloons do return to earth and birds and fish are found choked to death by them. No more balloons please.

RECYCLING HINTS

To the Editor:

The following list of "Recycling Hints" may be for the benefit of the citizens of Bethel. Newry and Greenwood take note as your towns are involved in the same county regional system and you may find these hints useful.

- Green glass is no longer recyclable.
- Plastic—There are seven types of plastic. However, only Number 2 HDPE is currently recyclable. Please flatten.
- Newspaper must be loose. No paper or plastic bags. No cartons and no magazines.
- Cardboard must be corrugated type. It must be flattened. No cereal boxes, beer six-pack containers or wine cooler containers.
- Tin cans labels must be removed. Flatten if possible.
- Aluminum, paper labels, if any, must be removed. Flatten if possible.
- No garbage or other landfill items.
- No building construction waste.
- Soon there may be separate bins for tin and aluminum. Please watch your signs and guides at the bins.

- If a bin appears to be full, please do not leave your recyclables but bring them back later.
- When bins have contamination, there is the possibility of a labor backcharge from the county. Please cooperate and keep our town costs down.
- There is a need for more cooperation in following the directions on the bins.
- If a "Dump Ranger" is on duty, ask for his or her advice.
- Remember to remove the caps from plastic and glass containers. If you forget, there is a barrel in Bethel for you to put them in. Caps are a contaminant.

The recycling committees of the various towns will try to keep you informed.

SENDING A MIXED MESSAGE?

To the Editor:

In the past couple of years, Bethel has made great strides in the area of chemical abuse awareness, especially under the leadership of Brian Stowell and the D.A.R.E. program.

Many parents, businesses, and other concerned adults have donated time and money toward making chemical awareness a reality.

However, I was very concerned about the number of places where beer was available on Mollycoddle Day. Several businesses had set up tents near the common for the purpose of selling alcohol. I just wonder if the mixed messages—drug prevention and drug sales—our community presents to our youth is such a good idea.

Even though it is a cliché to say that our young people are our future, it's true. We need to insure they stay healthy and chemical free. Maybe at next year's Mollycoddle Day some businesses can set a more positive example.

Hutchinson Pond Road Bridge needs repair

During a review of roads in Albany Township last week, Oxford County commissioners found one bridge in need of immediate repairs.

Commissioner Albert Carey of Paris said the bridge at the entrance of the Hutchinson Pond Road will be inspected by a Maine Department of Transportation bridge worker. He said the state bridge man will then tell the commissioners what work needs to be done to the bridge to ensure its safety.

But for now, Carey said, the bridge will remain open.

The commissioners also found some culverts that should be dug up and lowered, and several ditches that needed cleaning out, Carey said.

Pipeline

order to run the pipes. The project itself must gain site permit approval from Bethel, Newry and the DEP, he said. The plan must also comply with Bethel's shoreline zoning ordinances.

The Bethel Conservation Commission was asked to review the plan by Town Manager Madeleine Henley. She asked the commission to reply to the Department of Environmental Protection's request for project review.

The commission's main concerns involve the carcinogenic dioxin, as well as other possibly harmful toxins present in the river water.

The contaminants enter the river through the discharge of the James River Corporation's papermill in Berlin, N.H.

In a letter sent to the DEP last month, the conservation commission said it was concerned that toxic residues from snow melting off the south side of the skiway's mountains might enter into the Chapman Brook watershed.

That particular concern is not shared, however, by Bethel Water District president Bob Saunders, who said, "Basically we wouldn't expect any of that would be appearing in the district's water. We're on one side of the mountain and the ski area is on the other."

In its letter, the commission also asked, "Could there be the same type of 'paper mill' odor from the snow guns, as is now present near the Androscoggin River? The project has the effect of dispersing over a wide area some contaminants which are now confined to a single body of water."

"We agree with the concerns expressed," Aloisio said. "The project was initiated in discussions with the DEP. We're looking for an alternative water supply, from which the mountain can get more water with minimal impact on the environment."

Aloisio said that the Sunday River, from which the resort currently gets water, and the Androscoggin River are both Class B rivers.

(According to a DEP spokesman, however, all tributaries to the Androscoggin from the Maine/N.H. state line to where the Ellis River enters the Androscoggin are classified "AA"—including the Sunday River.)

Aloisio said the DEP told him that the toxins in question were mostly in the silt on the bottom of the river.

The skiway would do all it could to prevent that silt from entering into the system, Aloisio said, beginning by screening out the silt. Filtering the water would start once it entered the planned pump house and continue throughout the system, he said.

In a letter sent to the commission and area officials, Aloisio pointed out that the water from the Androscoggin River is used extensively in agricultural and livestock irrigation and that above the pipeline intake there is only one major source of pollutants.

Aloisio also said in the letter that there has been no documentation of large scale contamination of wells along the river. He later told the Citizen that he used the term "no large-scale contamination" because during his preliminary research he found no documentation of any well contamination along the Androscoggin River.

Pollution from the Androscoggin River water was not the conservation commission's only concern. Other points of concern included the noise from the pumps required to pump up to 12,000 gallons per minute, the visual appearance of the pump house and its electrical facilities, soil erosion during conservation and possible strain on electrical distribution capacity in Bethel.

In his letter to the DEP, Bethel Conservation Commission member Walter Hatch noted that these concerns were based on a brief description of the project. He added that if the project comes under site plan review in the future he would request considerably more information.

The DEP has recommended that the skiway employ an environmental consultant with toxicological expertise to evaluate the environmental impact and human health threat posed by the proposed plan.

The skiway has not yet done an extensive study of the environmental impact, Aloisio said. The project is still in the research stage, and the skiway has set no timetable for the construction of the pipeline, he said.

FROM THE

Bethel Town Office

Last week's column announced the temporary loss of Chief Bellman due to illness. I am pleased to be in receipt of a letter from his doctor allowing him to resume light duty.

For those of you who know the chief, you can imagine the trouble I am having negotiating the definition of "light duty."

While we battle that out, I hope you will all join me in thanking the regular officers, Darren Tripp and Michael Fortin, and all the reserves, for their outstanding contribution to the department while Chief Bellman was absent. The entire force showed themselves to be professionals, in every sense of the word.

Since I am handing out kudos, another town organization deserves recognition at this time. Congratulations are due to the Bethel Ambulance Service for the letter of commendation they received from Dr. Torrey Stephens Memorial Hospital. We assume the ambulance staff know that we appreciate their work, now is a good time to make sure of it.

Finally, I'd like to extend my personal gratitude to the crew of Scott Construction Inc. for their efforts to make Main Street parade ready. I know how hairy it got those last few days, and appreciate the perseverance they displayed. Mark Tyler of A.E. Hodson Engineers also deserves a bit of the credit. On behalf of the townspeople, thank you all. Now if you could only get those storm drains uncovered...

Speaking of parades, my husband and I would like to thank everyone for making our first Mollycoddle Day simply wonderful. In my line of work, one moves a great deal. It is a pleasure to be in a town that extends such a warm welcome to newcomers. And we love the canoe.

School board

district's policies annually, he said. During the policy committee's meeting, policy chairman Ray Harrington said, "If we're in a position on the board of directors, should we also be in a position to receive monetary compensation, such as a coach, substitute teacher, mowing lawns or sanding driveways? Conflict of interest is a concern. If a director feels he can contribute more to the district as a substitute teacher than that's a personal decision."

In addition, he said, spouses of board members may not be employed by the district for more than 20 hours a week. Several board members stayed after last week's regular meeting to voice their opinions on the matter. One member pointed out that the state handbook for board members seemed to allow for employment as a substitute teacher.

Harrington said he knew what the state handbook stated, but he said the board could vote to go beyond the handbook guidelines.

The policy board will recommend that directors still be allowed to serve as Adult Education teachers, Harrington said. "If we're not going to allow adult education teaching by board members, then we're really depriving our educational community," he said.

Harrington said when the change is recommended, the board will have at least two opportunities to discuss the proposal before the final vote on a policy change.

In other business at last week's meeting, the board voted to allow Superintendent Fry to borrow up to $200,000 during FY '92 on an as-needed basis.

"We have not borrowed money anytime I've been here," Craig said. "My concern would be that we'd have a payroll to meet and wouldn't have the funds. I'm not as worried about the towns not paying as I am about the state checks not arriving on time."

And the board debated yet again the district's use of styrofoam cups or plastic-coated paper cups. The district currently uses paper cups. However, district administrative assistant Bruce Powell said that plastic-coated paper cups are about twice as expensive as styrofoam cups.

Several board members said they wanted more information regarding the environmental impact of each type of cup. Bethel Director Marton Brown recommended that the board contact Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Corporation Recycling Chairman Marie Bartlett and ask her to research the issue and bring her findings to the board.

The board made the following personnel appointments last week: special education consulting teacher, Joan B. Casey; Telstar French and Spanish teacher, Anne M. Burg; Telstar home economics teacher, Lillian Conant; food service director, Geoffrey M. Stipphen and Adult Education academic skills teacher, Nancy Merrow.

Absent from last week's meeting were Bethel directors Cheryl Elliot and Edson Winslow, Woodstock directors Margaret Hand and Debra Poland and Greenwood director Ivan Roberts.

Nature day camp puts learning in a natural setting

Forty children aged, four to eight, participated in a Nature Day Camp at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond during the week of July 22.

During the week students participated in a variety of theme-based activities including birds, insects, aquatics, trees and mammals during a week-long day camp.

The program at the school uses hands-on experiences to help students increase their knowledge and awareness of the natural world.

According to conservation school director, Buzz Gamble, the Nature Day Camp was tailored to offer young students different learning opportunities highlighted by activities, educational games, crafts and stories with most activities held in the boundless classroom that Mother Nature provides.

Fireworks are worth the wait

Thousands of people came back to Bethel Saturday night to watch the postponed Mollycoddle Day fireworks—and this time they weren't disappointed.

Blue Hill Pyrotechnics, of Bangor, apologized for the Mollycoddle Day mix-up by the best way they knew how—by putting on a grand display.

Bethel Inn owner Dick Rasor, who co-sponsors the display with Sunday River Ski Resort, said he was pleased with the show. "They doubled the size of the show and made the best of the situation. We've always been very satisfied with the company."

Rasor also said he thought the crowd was about average for the annual event. "I walked around the inn grounds during the display. I thought the crowd was about the same as it was on Mollycoddle Day, but it was hard to tell in the dark."

Fighter flights inconsistent and unreliable information coming from the military about the plan.

WMA's Lowe said he was extremely pleased by the turnout for last week's meeting. He noted, however, that the session had been set up and conducted by the Guard in such a way that the residents' questions did not come until late in the evening—after reporters for television stations and daily newspapers had been forced to leave in order to meet their deadlines.

As a result, he said, few of the residents' concerns have been fully reflected in press coverage of the proposal.

Of the 60 or so residents who spoke out at the meeting, two or three speakers were neutral or leaning favorably toward the proposal, the remainder were consistently against it.

The speakers attacked the proposal on many fronts: impact on quality of life for people living under the flights, on property values, on wildlife, and on the state's crucial tourist and recreation industries.

They also questioned the military's willingness and ability to even abide by federal regulations and flight rules currently in place, and they challenged the vagueness and lack of specifics in the proposal.

The questions came from across the political spectrum. State Senator Jeff Mills, a Democrat, pointed out later that the strongest attacks came from the Republicans in Maine's congressional delegation.

U.S. Sen. William Cohen, in a statement prepared for the meeting, wrote that the flights would: "shatter the solitude of the airspace over this part of Maine, whose serenity is important to residents and visitors alike. Several thousand military aircraft flying low-level training missions over this area will forever alter the character and quality of life which in many respects is the lifeblood of the region."

U.S. Rep. Olympia Snowe, also in a prepared statement, said residents of the area should not be subjected "to jet planes screaming over their homes and businesses at 300 feet."

Snowe, still smarting from the failure of the Maine delegation to save Loring Air Force Base, suggested that the flights be conducted over Plattsburg, N.Y.

A consistent theme at the meeting was the apparent unwillingness of the military to abide by current regulation, such as the Federal Aviation Administration's prohibition against flying within 500 feet of a building, boat or inhabited area—and of the lack of evidence that military pilots who violate such regulations are disciplined.

Les McGowan of Oquossoc (north of Andover), a former fighter pilot himself, said later: "I couldn't believe the military could come in here and put on a presentation like that and be so unaware of the feelings of the people of Maine."

The FAA and the various arms of the military, "have treated us with complete disdain and arrogance," McGowan said, especially when it comes to dealing with incidents of military aircraft buzzing residents.

"In every outfit I've been in or heard of," McGowan said, "there's been a few guys who thought it would be smart to scare the hell out of people on the ground."

McGowan, who described himself as a conservative and generally a supporter of a strong national defense, said there is no evidence to suggest that the military is now making any effort to discipline such pilots, who have, in effect, "a free license to do whatever they damn well please."

McGowan's complaints were seconded by a number of other speakers at last week's meeting.

Other speakers complained of the military's inability to provide consistent, reliable information about the specifics of the proposal—or even about who it is who will make the final decision on whether or not to go ahead with it.

"That's a real good question," Mills

Bethel biathlon set for Sunday

National publicity for the Kingsbury Summer Biathlon Event, which combines a 5-K run with 22 marksmanship has apparently drummed up increased interest in the Aug. 4 event in Bethel.

Entry forms in "Runners World" magazine and "Mainely Running," plus a feature article in Erin McLean's On Running column in the Maine Sunday Telegram have brought in a large number of pre-entries for the Gould Academy Kingsbury Summer Biathlon, with runners entering from Waldoboro, Falmouth, Yarmouth, Vassalboro, and many other Maine towns.

"Thirty-five competed last summer, but the advance interest this year has been much greater," said Kirk Siegel, a coach for the U.S. Biathlon Team, who runs the biathlon program at Gould Academy.

Siegel said that since most participants don't enter until the day of the race, it is hard to know the field size, but he is hoping for over 50, most of whom will probably be trying the event for the first time.

"Our real target is the runner who may have heard about the winter Olympic event and who is curious about the sport and interested in learning how to shoot twice in the middle of a 5 kilometer run," Siegel said.

The relatively short running distance seems to attract both casual runners as well as some serious road runners. "It's a good mix—a few, 10 minute milers, a couple sub-30 minute 10-K runners and lots of people in between," Siegel said.

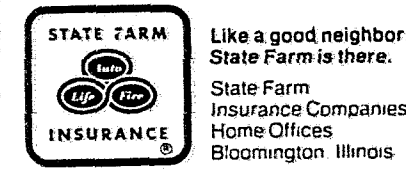

Gould Academy's biathlon program was featured on ESPN in February and is the only competitive high school program in the country. Information is available from Betsy Paquette at 207-624-2196.

Seborrhea is a skin condition that is commonly confused with dandruff. The term seborrhea refers to chronic skin eruptions, most of which occur on the scalp, face, and other hairy parts of the body. Seborrhea is associated with dull, greasy scales. The skin tends to itch and burn.

When seborrhea occurs in newborns and young infants, the condition often is referred to as "cradle cap." Seborrhea tends to intensify during periods of stress. Women are affected more often than men, and the condition is seen most frequently among middle-aged and older adults.

Although seborrhea and dandruff are not the same condition, they are treated in much the same way. Many medicated over-the-counter shampoos can be used to treat either condition. A recent article in U.S. Pharmacist suggests these guidelines for medicated shampoos: (1) If the condition gets worse or does not improve, try products with different ingredients. (2) Do not use medicated shampoos on children under the age of two except on the advice of a physician. (3) Do not use products containing selenium if you have open sores on your scalp. (4) If the scalp is especially dirty, wash it first with a regular shampoo to remove excess dirt and scales.

Adult Education

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program is in the midst of a busy summer session combining several academic brush-up courses with traditional favorites such as computers, business skills, wood-carving, and CPR, as well as a full line-up of University of Maine ITV classes.

According to Director of Adult and Community Education Cathy Newell, the 121 enrollments for summer classes have exceeded previous years. Other highlights include seven new GED students enrolling since July 1 and eight students in English Review, 15 students in Math/Algebra and 42 ITV students.

Project Rural Workplace classes are getting underway at Bethel Furniture Stock. The program, which will offer a variety of workplace basics classes on-site, was inaugurated by Leon Favreau at a recent company meeting and sign-ups for initial course offerings are in progress. Other Project Rural Workplace sites are Poland Spring Bottling Company, Boise Cascade and Maine Machine Products.

Project Coordinator Barbara Radmore, assisted by SAD #44 staff Cathy Newell and Lin Chapman, recently completed the 50-page grant application for second cycle funding for Project Rural Workplace, which will seek to expand the program to workers in the health care field. Employers who are interested in learning more about the program may contact Mrs. Radmore at 364-2012.

Nancy Merrow of Dryden will be the Academic Skills Instructor for SAD #44 Adult and Community Education starting Aug. 1. She has most recently been on the staff of NOVA Adult Education and has specialties in both math and English. She will be available for academic brush-up classes during a schedule of day and evening classes starting in late August.

Adults interested in adult high school completion or GED, as well as academic brush-up, are encouraged to call the Adult Education office, 824-2700, to schedule an intake appointment with Merrill Bittner. Bittner, who provides educational and vocational guidance for adults, is also scheduling fall time slots for CareerSearch, a process of career exploration which has been helpful to many adults who are seeking to enter the world of work or to change careers.

A week in the life of HILLARY HARRISON

Hi all! How do you do? I'm great. Mollykett Day was great. It seemed like all of New England was on the come race. I didn't place but I did good just by running in the race, I think. After the race there was a sprinkler at the finish it was very refreshing. After the race I got together with some friends to check out all of the games and booths Mollykett Day had to offer. I was very disappointed when the fireworks were canceled but I'm glad they have rescheduled them. I would like to thank everyone who made Mollykett Day possible. You did a great job!

The Greenwood Fire Department is not holding its regular meetings during the summer months so there will be none the first week in August. The Auxiliary however, held their meeting Monday evening with Sally Melville, Veronica Melville, Barbara Dunham, Denise Swan, Lorraine Mills, and Mary Stone present along with guest, Jay Melville. They discussed the lunch they were to provide visiting firemen parade and the fact that although the auxiliary usually puts on a Senior Citizens dinner in August no one had heard from that organization. Two days later members were informed that the dinner will go on as usual. Somewhere a message had not gotten through so members will be solicited for the dinner which is on Thursday, August 1.

Fanny Baker is in the Mary Hitchcock Hospital in Hanover, N.H. where she had a cancer removed from her leg.

Vivian Barlow is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital where she had a knee replacement. Those who know Vivian know she appreciates cards, prayers, and visits.

Jim and Linda (Greene) Ryan, with sons, Benjamin and Richard, are spending this week at the Greene's house on Howe Hill. It is a never ending source of wonder to see the changes in children when you only see them once or twice a year. Last year Ben played by himself or with his daddy while Rick was just a baby in his mother's arms. This year the two boys are out riding bikes and playing ball with each other and have gone from toddlers to young boys. Another year and no doubt they will be insisting on being called young men.

Ralph Mills returned to his home in Colchester, Vt., after spending ten days with his parents, John and Lorraine Mills. It's supposed to be his vacation but he has to go home to relax. While here he put a new faucet in the sink, helped his dad split and pile the firewood. We all visited Eleanor and Roger Bennett in Scarborough and Mary Mills of Sebago Lake where she works for Marion Johnson (Don and Mae Mills of Norway were also visiting Mary so we had a mini family reunion) and he spent several days working on his camp in West Greenwood. We also had supper one night with Carolyn, Carl and Brian Colby in West Greenwood.

Somewhere remarked my column was a bit smaller than usual last week and I answered that there would have been none at all if someone had not taken their news directly to the Citizen office. If you can not reach me and you have something you want in by all means send or take it up by Friday noon. I was called Thursday evening and asked if I could get Vickie Hughes of Rumford to Lewiston to catch a bus for Tennessee to visit her father and other relatives there, so Friday morning Ralph and I picked up Vickie and took her to the bus station.

Charlie Knight's sister, Marjorie Hatfield, has had a heart attack and was in St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston for awhile but has been moved to the Ledgewood Memorial Home in West Paris.

Just a reminder to those who keep dogs outside to keep plenty of fresh water and shade available. I've heard of too many animals dying in the heat this year. There are always some who don't care and in my opinion ought to be left out for a day without water and shade tied to a four foot chain to see what it's like. To others it is a traumatic experience to find the dog they care for dead. Dogs don't always show good judgement so it's up to the owners to think for them and show caution.

John and Lorraine Mills attended the baptism service and pool party for the Praise Assembly of God at the John Trimble's in Rumford Sunday afternoon. Four people were baptized. Janelle Trimble, Owen Brown, Kim Brown, and Ryan Driscoll. After the baptism a lunch was served and an afternoon of swimming in the pool was enjoyed.

The Rob Rainvilles gave the John Mills an apartment size electric stove which Ralph brought home in the trailer and set up. It sure makes for more room in the kitchen than the full size one and is plenty big for our purpose.

I discovered the other day that I had missed an item that should have gone in back when Ricky Roy was home and that was that he and Todd Swan met on the plane somewhere in the states and flew home together. This was purely coincidence and just proves the world keeps getting smaller.

Well, July is almost over. I always look forward to September although I'm not one to believe in wishing time away. July and August are my two least favorite months and are those "to be endured". The hot weather makes me literally sick and it's a constant battle with humidity and bugs and with so many animals August is the beginning of the flea war. I'm never sure which will get us first the fleas or the toxins we use to get rid of them. In fact the fleas seem harder than we are when it comes to toxins. One flea can be peskier than anything I know with the possible exception of minges. It's a fun season.

I spent several days last week with daughter Ethel and family at the Cape in Otisfield.

Danny Tanguay and family from Massachusetts are spending this week at camp here next to his mother's cottage, the Bob Folsoms.

At the Lincoln home last weekend for Mollykett Day were Richard and Denise Lincoln and three children and her niece from the midwest, and Mrs. Patti Gianfranti, Katie and Matthew, all from Hingham, Mass.

Paul and Cecile Poisson of Titusville, Fla. arrived at the Poisson camp on Wednesday. Their son Paul of Manchester, N.H. met them at the jetport and drove them up. Thursday they visited relatives and friends in Berlin, N.H. They called over here also. Kassi and Kaity were here and Rev. Jean Bass.

Mrs. Dot Orino is entertaining relatives this week.

Dan and Lesli (Olson) Mickool of Ft. Myers, Fla. have a new baby daughter, Katherine Elizabeth, born on July 23. Katherine is a new granddaughter of Melvin and Shirley Olson. Kane and Karl Olson and their cousin, Hilary Sturdivant of Otisfield, attend Nature Day Camp at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond last week.

Phyllis Barnhill of Sarasota, Fla. and her daughter, Brenda, are visiting friends and relatives. They will be going home around Aug. 10.

Newry

By JIM ANDERSON

Well another Mollycoddle day is done for this year. This year the weather was really hot. Deputy Peanut and his gang of "little peanuts" were in and on the Newry truck. This past Saturday it was the chief and I at the Greenwood parade. Almost sounds like a Broadway show titled the chief and I.

July 22 we had a Duff fire up by letter S swimming hole in the afternoon. This time we had ten members at the fire. I stayed to direct any more personnel to the scene, then went up the road to see what I could do to help.

Before Mollycoddle, I finished a new set of steps to the kitchen porch. In questioning the difference between a brush fire and a forest fire, I guess the only difference is in the acreage that is burned. One to three or so could be called a brush fire and 10 to 100 is a forest fire. Both are still hot work.

On August 5th, the ladies circle will meet at the Tetley's.

As I write this column, I am surrounded with pagers. I have two pagers from the fire department (one mine, one that needs to be fixed) and my scanner. I think I should hear if there is a fire today or not. Haven't heard a peep from our Bethel man Dan since last Friday. Heard that he was very busy with trying to maintain three conversations at once on three bands. If anyone can do it, Danny can!

Of course, anyone would lose their cool in this situation. This was reported to me by the blueberry kid who was at the fire on Route 5.

Noticed in "up town Bethel" the stop-sign, keep right island the head of Main Street is gone. Will miss another Bethel land/road mark. Maybe the town fathers will replace it.

Another landmark is finally gone and a new house is going up. That is the Davis' new house. The cellar/garage is up and framing for the rest of the house is starting.

Last week's Citizen mentioned a possibility of "glitches," well my column was alright. However, another paper goofed! It made you think that I thought I would hit some tables until you read further down in the paragraph. Now my writing and spelling may leave something to be desired, but I usually try and make my paragraphs make sense.

Yes folks, there really is a "wee willie" and he and his bride were up in town. I cut his grass for him and keep a good eye out for his house. I even had "Mr. CMP" of Paradise and his bride ask me who "wee willie" is. I told them who he is because he might need to know sometime. Now, if Connel will just get "wee willie's" cable in, things will be quiet with "wee willie" and me. And then Peanut can relax.

Well, that's it for now. Gil will have more, I'm sure of that. Happy birthday Amy Hanscom!!!

Greenwood City

What a busy time at the farm now. There is an endless succession of tasks on through every day and the deadline seems to be immediate. Over the curved shoulders of the fields the machines move.

Bales of hay dot the land and the gray boulders rise in the sun. The fragrance of the new mown grass changes at almost every step.

Everywhere the barn swallows around, fly with sunlight flashing on their dark blue satin backs; their forked tails brushing and combing, as they chatter all the time. They dart down at the cat, as he naps in the sun.

One can not cheat the earth when it comes to farming. The land must be tended religiously, putting back into the soil much labor and time for what has been taken out. Men spend their strength and years at this art, and it truly is an art, in training their beautiful land to their service. Farming is filled with hard work but great satisfaction. The air is filled with lovely sounds and soft breezes are redolent with growing things. There is peace that one can not fail to feel.

At night when the chores are ended and the moon rises making a golden path across the water to your door step, the sky above is clear and filled with stars, one forgets his labor of the day and thinks how wonderful it is to live in the country where routine work and common things of nature bring a time of rest.

Many members of the family of Rena Curtis were at her home on July 20 to wish her a happy birthday.

John and Dot Betts were at a cottage on Moysam Lake for the weekend of July 20.

During our heat wave there was a lot of activity on the pond, water skiing, boating and swimming.

On Sunday, July 21, the Innams were at their camp, Maplewood, for the day. They enjoyed the water activities on the pond.

The children, their parents and I have met several times to rehearse for our parts in the celebration of Greenwood's 175th Anniversary. It brought back memories to me of days long gone. It has been fun.

Forward Fellowship met on Monday evening with Cynthia Lamb on North Pond. There were 12 members present. After the potluck supper, a business meeting was held. The Finance Committee reported that $1,068.85 profit was made on the supper and auction last Saturday night. A real success! On August 11 there will be a pie sale at Littlefield's Beach. The committee will be Maria Clemons, Lempi Cyr, Edith Morey and Eleanor Ross. Joyce Lamb and Mina Whittier will purchase material for new curtains for Goodwill Hall. Pokeno was played. The next meeting will be at Beryl Bonney's cottage on August 26.

Carolyn Snow of Bath and her mother Hilda Fitzpatrick of Danforth visited their cousin and niece, Sally and Gordon Doughty on Saturday.

Helen Olson called to tell me that her daughter Kathleen Coffin and sons Dana and Richard have been visiting her brother David Olson in Cheyenne, Wyoming. David will be stationed in Rhode Island next September to finish his military training in the Naval Reserves.

The Parisians will be playing for a concert in Moore Park, South Paris, on Tuesday evening, August 6.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

A picnic was held in honor of Arthur Andrews and Esther Davis' birthday the 17th and the 24th, so we had it the 19th at the Crocker Pond camping area in Albany. Those catering were Shannon Goldsmith, Sylvia Andrews, Olive Davis, and Esther Davis. A birthday double cake was made by Olive Davis and served at the end of the meal. They called at the Pingree lot in Songo Pond graveyard, as they left for home.

Deven Andrews took Esther and Olive Davis out for dinner Saturday at noon in South Paris. Esther and I honored his birthday, which was the 18th, with a gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway's daughter, Jane Niro and two children of Massachusetts visited her parents this week. Friday night Michael Niro came for the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Giamacoli and son also came Friday for the weekend.

Ellsworth Hathaway is confined to the bed with a bad back at the present time.

Esther Davis was in the Farmington area visiting her brother at the nursing home Sunday. She also called on other relatives in and around the Livermore area.

Mama Mia! It was hot last week! But it didn't stop those thieving Gypsies from wandering around Maine to steal anything that isn't nailed down. Did you know that they originally came from Europe, maybe India in the 15th century? The word, gyp, means to cheat, swindle or defraud. So watch out for them. We should set traps for them and catch a few. The police are warning home folks to be careful about people who come to your door wanting to use your phone or whatever, any reason to get inside.

The Newry Community Church

Ladies Circle had a very successful food sale the 26th. Thanks to president Sylvia Wright, Louise Tetley, Olive Anderson, and G.S. We were so thankful all the people who donated food, and the I.G.A. who made it possible. And all the people who bought the goodies. Thank you all.

My little cat "Gemini" thinks its hunting time again, she came in with a baby rabbit one day last week. I will have to tell her to get a license soon if she keeps that up...

The Davis house is coming along wonderfully. Eleanor and the rest of the family must be anxious to get in and live comfortably again.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Congregational Church held a regular meeting at the C.E.B. on July 17. It was reported that Sandra Wainwright won the medicine cabinet for which the ladies had sold chances. Violet Swain donated two tray tables for use in the church dining room and also one that had been given to her by Richard Theriault. It was voted to give $100 toward the new septic system that has recently been installed at the church.

Betsy White was pleasantly surprised with a card, and a birthday cake made by the meeting hostess, Dottie Lang. The group does not meet again until September, but will sponsor the upcoming food and craft sale to be held in the C.E.B. on Saturday, August 3 during Old Home Days, from 9-2 p.m.

All youngsters age five and up are reminded to sign-up for the summer recreation program to be held weekdays starting on Monday, August 5, through Friday, the 16. The activities will begin at 9 a.m. until noon. The sign-up sheets are in all local stores. Anyone with questions should call Gary Williamson, II, the recreation director, at 392-1631. The Old Home Days committee will meet Wednesday, July 31 at 7 at Akers Store to finalize plans for the celebration that begins Friday night. The committee is selling T-shirts with a design of the Brickett Bridge and a team of horses for $7.50/ea or three for $20. The ninth drawing was held for a $20 prize. Emily Cummings was the lucky winner.

Don't forget that the Historical Society's Annual Picnic will be at Olive Risko's Camp. This will be August 10th at 6 p.m. and you should bring food and folding chair. Francis Brooks has given the Society items relating to his father, who was a banker by profession. Duke and Sandra Brooks have given some items to the historical museum. Mary Billings and Kathleen Bean organized and ran a very successful food sale for the Society at the beach at Locke Mills. Much thanks to them and to all who donated food. Mary and Kathleen have done much work on the Finance Committee this year.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet at the Locke Mills Town Hall for their August meeting. Dinner will be put on by the Firemen's Auxiliary, program by Herschel Abbott. This meeting is August 1, at 11 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Jordan called on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway on Saturday. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Estes called on them.

By VIVA WHITMAN

A beautiful morning to start the week off but still no rain to help the gardens and forests that need it so badly. Hope this dry spell doesn't last much longer.

The girls, Courtney and Kariann, were up on Thursday night to stay over till Saturday and they helped shell peas like good girls. Also helped their old grandma in other ways also. I didn't mind having them up at all and they had a good time I guess, only that it was so hot. Friday evening I took them to Norway Lake swimming. They hadn't brought their swim suits but went in just the same. No worse than others that do the same thing.

Peggy usually goes into the stores on Monday and Friday to do her cards so makes it harder to get rides to the doctors but thank God for Western Maine transportation. It has been a Godsend to me.

Saturday morning more peas were picked but not as many as cooked them up to take to family reunion on Sunday. Peggy went to Bethel to Mollycoddle day and met lots of folks there. Said they had a good parade also. Mike and Nonie were going to a wedding reception Saturday afternoon and got the girls about lunch time so they could go also.

Sunday was our family reunion with Bryce and Barbara Yates on the Sunday River Road in Bethel. Guess everyone thought it was going to be another scorcher so not as many as usual turned out. However, there is usually a breeze there and was Sunday so not so hot and we had a good time. Plenty of food for all who came. We had a very brief rain shower that drove us into the house for about five minutes and that was all. The air cooled off and we were quite comfortable the rest of the day.

Those present were: Bryce and Barb, host and hostess; Darnita and John Taylor and three children; Barbara's mother Arlene Myshraill and two girls; Elden and Terry Yates and two children; Wynona and Michael Woolf and two daughters; Helen Strout and niece of Oxford; Viva Whitman; Russell Yates; Linona Blake; Myrna and Bernard White; Loretta Merrill; Carroll Yates and son Gary; Elyse Fisher and son Andy with friend Ken.

Called Mary and her black raspberries have been bearing good and she is making jam. Said her others are starting to ripen and hopes to have a lot but they need rain.

Helena Bartlett spent the afternoon last week with the Lovejoys at camp and had supper with them. It was cooler there than in her apartment in Bethel.

Got to go get busy as Russell just brought in a pail full of peas for me to start shelling and I'm not quite ready to start yet.

Hope everyone can keep cooler than last week and have a nice week ahead. Don't forget Franklin Grange will be having a variety show on August 16 at the grange hall in Bryant Pond.

Farmer's Market notes:

The Bethel Farmer's Market has been opened since the first of June this year and has had a wide variety of fruit and vegetables, baked goods and jams offered. (Not to mention the baby ducks, kittens and rabbits).

Starting the season were greens, herbs, lettuce, broccoli, strawberries. Available now are beans, beats, carrots, greens, summer squash, cukes, herbs, peppers, blueberries and pie cherries. Corn and tomatoes should be soon.

The lack of rain is a big concern this year. The ground is very dry and the little recent rain only moistened the top. There are hay and corn fields that have been sunburned and may not recover this year. Early raspberries are not plentiful this year and are very high priced.

The following children received their free tomato seedling on opening day: Lorenzo Baker, Bobby Bean, Ashley, Christopher and Travis Brooks, Braden Brown, Joel Doyon, Lauren and Lindsay Hart, Alana Kennagh, Sarah, Chelsea and Billy Marshall, Billy and Erin Murphy, Kane and Karl Olson, Mia Stuechi, Mike and Sarah Swan, Jenny Wheeler.

The market wishes all the children good luck and looks forward to the first red tomato they have grown.

Another contest the Farmer's Market is offering is the largest home-grown zucchini. This contest is opened to everyone and will take place on Aug. 3.

Task force notes—

The Bethel Area Task Force met Sunday evening, July 28, and the following issues were discussed.

Gwyneth Bohr received a letter from a NTL board member regarding what is being scheduled for the 1992 season.

Nancy Appleman-Vassil, director of programs, discussed several issues: Changes have been made from the original decision of the board. Certain labs will be held here, but she did not feel human interaction labs would be included. There is a great deal of data the board has had to absorb and therefore no decision will be made until March of 1992.

The Cultural and Educational Committee is planning a Community Conference, "Improving the Quality of Life in Bethel," this fall, which will be a one-day event with Eddie Seashore facilitating and from the conference the Community Economic Development Committee will compile a survey.

Charlie Seashore shared with the task force what he has learned about the Highlander of Lew Market, Tenn. A group of individuals who have a strong interest in their community and what's going on and how to come up with solutions. A couple from this group will be here in August to perform a concert on the lawn of NTL's Conference Center, followed by a discussion. Articles will be in the paper for exact date and time.

Contribution can be made to the Bethel Area Task Force, c/o John Bayerlein, P.O. Box 468, Bethel, ME 04217.

Gene Long, Clinical Consultant, who was an instructor with NTL in the 60s and 70s when NTL focused on community organization gave us a brief history of his career and would like to see some of these courses reinstated to NTL's program.

The next meeting will be Sunday, Aug. 4, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center at 7 p.m. All are welcome.

NTL Notes:

Sunday and Monday brought a new wave of participants and staff members to Bethel for NTL Institute's ongoing programs in human resource development. The topics covered this week include: "Interpersonal Styles and Effectiveness" (one of 12 courses in a two-year collaborative Master's program developed by NTL with the American University in Washington, D.C.); the ever-popular "Human Interaction Laboratory;" Phase 4 of a 15-month sequence for "Graduate Students' Professional Development;" the continuation of a two-week centering program; and "Strategic Management and Organization Development."

The international population this week is small, with participants only from New Zealand, Ireland, Nigeria and Canada.

Mary Beth Peters, the overall dean for four weeks, again led Monday's orientation program for participants. Among the several speakers was Tom McGinness, who spoke a few words of welcome from the community and from the Bethel/NTL Liaison Committee.

The 7:15 a.m. Sunrise Seminars, held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center and open to all, continued this week with the following presentations: Wednesday, July 31, "The Centering Experience," by the Centering Lab and Staff. (Note: Takes place at the NTL Conference House at the upper end of Broad Street.)

Thursday, Aug. 1, "The White Male Category: Working at the Intersection of Race/Gender," by Charlie Seashore et al.

Friday, Aug. 2, "Power and Verbal Aikido," by Michael Broom, Dee Davis and Jim Wolf.

Saturday, Aug. 3, "Endings in Organizations," by Barbara Hein.

Sunday, Aug. 4, "Worship Experience," with Don Coverdale and others. (Note: Takes place at the NTL In-Tent, in the woods opposite the Clusters.)

In addition to the morning seminars, a special PBS video presentation with Bill Moyers and Robert Bly entitled, "A Gathering of Men," will be shown during the week. Interested persons may phone the NTL office at 824-2151 for further information.

MOLLYOCKETT LUMBERJACKS
Winners in the Mollyockett Day lumberjack competition were: first place, Jeff Fleet, second place, Steve Cross and third place, John Gibbs.

DIVORCE WORKSHOP

A divorce workshop will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 7, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the UMA Rumford/Mexico Center, 59 Congress Street, Rumford. The clinic will explore issues of divorce and will discuss the pros and cons of doing a divorce without a lawyer. All paperwork necessary to start and finish your own divorce will be completed in class. Please bring your lunch.

To qualify for this clinic, you must be eligible under Pine Tree Legal's financial guidelines. For more information, call Pine Tree Legal at 942-8241 or the Volunteer Lawyers Project at 1-800-442-4293 or 774-4348.

Rotary Club notes

Jeff Parsons was program chairman at the Tuesday, July 23, breakfast meeting. He briefed the club on the outcome of two busy days on Mollyockett Day weekend, including the auction, coordinated by president Dave Murphy and the chicken barbeque.

He is going to appoint a committee to look into the future direction for Rotary activities on Mollyockett Day. Dick Fain gave Rotary information and urged members to reissue a challenge to president Dave since he challenged the club to achieve 92 percent attendance in 1992.

Rollie Glines presented a Rotary banner from Raune, Wis., the birthplace of Rotary founder Paul Harris. Guests for the morning were Ira Pitcher (LA Club), Bill Lowther, Gil Robinson, Jim Wiswell, Malcolm Verlogan (Lewiston/Auburn), Ron Therault (Rumford), and Ron Parsons.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce
A huge thank you to the tremendous volunteer effort to all those that made Mollyockett Day activities happen this year for the Chamber. To Esther Crockett and her crew, to Doug Zinchuk and Tim Hutchins, to Dillon

Gillies, Mike Cooper, the Sunday River Crew and all the wonderful race volunteers and to Paula Gillies and all the game of chance volunteers. Our hat is off to all of you. Special thanks to all the prize donors and sponsors: Pepsi, Bethel Savings Bank, CMP, Sunday River Ski Resort and Groan and McGurn.

The Chamber board of directors will meet next Thursday, Aug. 8, for the regular monthly meeting at 7:30 a.m. at Casco Bank.

Welcome to Phil Gormley, new coordinator at Wilderness Medical Associates in Woodstock.

The Chamber urges all businesspeople to educate themselves about the Army National Guard's proposal to increase flights over western Maine. Our legislative delegation is very concerned and opposed to this proposal but they need to hear from all of you soon.

BUICK NEWS

Introducing the New Buick Roadmaster

The new Buick Roadmaster transmission puts that power in modern technology with every thing good from their ancestors. The result is a new level of excellence.

A proven 5.7-liter V-8 engine with electronic fuel injection delivers authoritative power. And a 4-speed automatic overdrive transmission puts that power in smooth motion. Anti-lock braking is standard, for improved steering control and stopping power in adverse conditions.

Big, spacious, comfortable and solid, Roadmaster continues the tradition of its well-equipped predecessors. For safety, there are front-seat lap and shoulder belts for driver and outboard passenger, plus a Supplemental Inflatable Restraint (air bag) for the driver. A tilt steering column, twin reading lights built into the rearview mirror, cruise control, power windows, power door locks and remote trunk release—all standard—add to the convenience you'll enjoy in Roadmaster Sedan.

BELOW INVOICE???
When we sell a Toyota for less than invoice we are not losing money. What's happening is that we have worked our way up to Toyota's top dealer incentive level. We keep part of Toyota's incentive money as our profit and use the rest to subsidize below invoice pricing! A good deal for everyone!

FROM A CONSUMER'S STANDPOINT
"Below invoice" is the easiest form of advertised price to shop. Changes in price level are a concrete benchmark, use it when test shopping our prices. Toyota does not rebate for their dealers a bid back or advertising incentive.

TOYOTA'S INCENTIVES END AUGUST 2nd
With the economy worsening and many Toyota dealers unable to supply with the best incentives be as low as possible.

Meisners celebrate their 40th

On June 23, their 40th wedding anniversary, Barbara and Orville Meisner were guests of honor at an open-house held at their home in East Andover.

The event was planned by their children, Mrs. Diane Dymond of Rumford and Gary Meisner of Augusta. The East Andover Community Club and Calvary Congregational Church assisted with the refreshments.

The special table was decorated in red and white with a red and white wishing well, a bouquet of flowers, past pictures of the family and a three-tier cake made by Tina Farrington. Each layer was a different flavor and it was decorated with red and white roses and topped with red bells, white lace and bows.
